DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claim 13 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter. The claim is directed to a computer program per se. Cf. claim 10.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second and fourth paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Subject to the following paragraph, a claim in dependent form shall contain a reference to a claim previously set forth and then specify a further limitation of the subject matter claimed. A claim in dependent form shall be construed to incorporate by reference all the limitations of the claim to which it refers.

Claims 7-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second and fourth paragraphs, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention and further limiting the claimed subject matter.

Re. Claim 7: the preamble and claim body are not consistent. The preamble initiates the claim as an apparatus claimed. The claim body recites method steps. This leads to a matter of indefiniteness because one skilled in the art could not ascertain the metes and bounds of the claim, i.e. is the claim infringe by a method or an apparatus.

Re. claims 8 and 9: these claims fail to further limit the "apparatus" recited in claim 7. Instead, these claims add additional steps.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

Claims 1-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Nimura, USPN 6,425,827.

Nimura discloses a sound controller system that changes at least the volume of the sounds produce by the progress and situation of the game. As shown in figures 3 and 4, it can be seen that channel 5 has its volume changed from 1.0 to 1.15. This disclosure anticipates the claimed invention found within these broadly recited claims.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Applicant is highly encouraged to read and thoroughly study all of the prior art cited because multiple references contained within the cited references could have been used to reject the broadly claimed invention.
